age 40. born Melbourne. describe yourself in ten words I am open to miracles and willing to do what it takes. gets you out of bed in the morning The potential of a brand-new day and what I can create with the few hours ahead of me. something you discovered this month That I have all the resources, knowledge and ability to handle anything I need to, even if I don't know how! scares you The thought that those I love don't feel it. idea of complete happiness Being able to ride the peaks and troughs of happiness/indifference without being attached to them. worth fighting for Freedom, truth and love. world needs to change The world doesn't need to change, only individuals do. We need to change the way we use the planet's resources. biggest inspiration Mother Nature. She provides everything we will ever need to survive and thrive. We just need to ask the right questions to learn from her. hope to achieve A sense of fun and happiness in my day, and strength, vigour and wellbeing in my body. words of wisdom Aim to live consciously in the moment. Don't get stuck in the past or worry about the future.

CRIMSON // Celebrating the visceral elements of life, Blood Concept is a slightly peculiar fragrance line that draws inspiration from the simplistic and the realistic – without relying on saccharine or floral notes. Dictated by the qualities of different blood types, each scent embodies distinct characteristics. Ranging from primal and earthy (Type O), to idiosyncratic and uninhibited (Type AB), the collection pushes the boundaries of perfumery.

SLICK // Bidding farewell to lamentable razor blades and overtly tawdry razors, the Gerhardt Kellermann Shaver focuses on aesthetically pleasing design. Ensuring that bathroom benches are provided with the opportunity to maintain minimalist design, the German-designed shaver is focused on elegant grooming. Pared back to basics, the stainless-steel shaver is designed to fit standard razor blades, and provides a simple grip for easy handling.
